COLLABORATIVE PROBLEM SOLVING STUDY

Definitely Notaperson

Thank you for your valuable contribution to our research!

Sample Team B | High Agreement

Your Teamwork Competency Profile

Your responses compared to your team's average (Scale: 1–4)

Interpersonal

CR + CPS + COM

2.83 / 4 Team: 3.02

Self-Management

GSPM + PTC

3.35 / 4 Team: 3.04

Satisfaction with Team Collaboration

How you rated your experience working with your team

3.2 / 5

Understanding Your Competencies

CR Conflict Resolution You: 2.9 | Team: 3.0

The ability to recognize different types and sources of conflict, encourage constructive disagreement while discouraging destructive conflict, and integrate diverse viewpoints during negotiation processes.

CPS Collaborative Problem Solving You: 3.1 | Team: 3.0

Involves identifying when group approaches are needed, participating appropriately in collective problem solving activities, and recognizing obstacles to effective collaboration.

COM Communication You: 2.5 | Team: 3.0

Includes listening actively, providing clear and timely information, and adapting communication style to different audiences and contexts.

GSPM Goal Setting and Performance Management You: 3.0 | Team: 2.9

Involves establishing specific and challenging team objectives, monitoring progress toward goals, and providing constructive feedback on team activities.

PTC Planning and Task Coordination You: 3.7 | Team: 3.1

Requires coordinating activities and information between team members, establishing appropriate role assignments, and managing workload distribution effectively.

---

This profile is provided as part of a research study conducted through the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. The information presented reflects your individual responses and your team's aggregated data from the Teamwork Competency Test and post-session satisfaction survey. Scores represent self-reported behavioral tendencies and are not evaluative assessments of job performance or professional capability.